“With the Vienna Philharmonic, the Zurich Opera Orchestra and Klangforum Wien, Hsin-Huei Huang has always demonstrated her magnificent abilities.” Beat Furrer

Taiwanese-Austrian pianist Hsin-Huei Huang is known for her equally precise, expressive, and sensitive interpretation of contemporary piano works alongside the classical piano repertoire. After studies and performances with piano and violoncello in Taiwan, Hsin-Huei Huang came to Europe to continue with her piano studies in 1997. From an early stage she interpreted a wide range of music within the piano repertoire, from compositions by Bach through to contemporary music. She is also dedicating her work to an interpretation of compositions with special instrumentations, such as Wolfgang Rihm’s Chiffre I – for piano and seven instruments, Olivier Messiaen’s Oiseaux exotiques for piano and small orchestra, Bohuslav Martinů’s Concerto for Piano Trio and String Orchestra, Paul Hindemith’s

Concert Music for Piano, Brass and Harps, Francis Poulenc’s Concerto for two Pianos and Orchestra, as well as premieres of new works for piano solo and orchestra by contemporary composers.

Besides numerous live recordings for radio (ORF, SWR, DRS, Rai, WDR and others), Hsin-Huei Huang recorded the compositions Peter Parker and Schöne Worte dedicated to her by Bernhard Gander for the label KAIROS, and the piano quintet Spur by Beat Furrer for the Label NEOS. On her debut Album SOLO, released with Label GOD records in 2016, she is presenting piano works by Bernhard Lang, Matthias Pintscher and Peter Savli. This recording of Bernhard Lang’s highly virtuosic pianowork DW12, cellular automata is described as a reference recording by its composer.
